Tokohia ngā tamariki: 60

8th February 2024
Kia ora e te whanau,

Well, what an interesting Waitangi Day (extended weekend) especially including the days leading up to it. In my opinion, did the occasion created an opportunity to again unite Maaori in its entirety with a common purpose? (to stand together). The media can sometimes put a spin on things which can cause uncertainty, but this time, when politics was getting involved with what potentially could have led to a significant change in how we do things, they have mostly challenged the likes of our current politicians to be very clear about what their directions could lead to. Watch this space you could say.

Our new water feature has delivered a positive vibe from our tamariki, in particular our juniors. It is great to see them curious and putting their hands under the waterfalls as it trickles to the level below.

Today we had our first scoping hui with our Yr 7-8 students about the E-velocity project that we are intending to work on over the next little while. There is a lot of teamwork dynamics involved and ascertaining a few ground rules, so they all know what and how to go about their planning the next steps. We welcome whaanau and others to help support our tamariki with this unique experience. We will be planning a trip to Waikato University in early March to have a look at some of the projects from the past to get ideas on how we are going to build our challenge and to have a good look around the university at the same time. We'll keep you posted.
